RESPONSE TO RESTRICTION REQUIREMENT

Sir:

In the Office Action mailed December 18, 2007, the Examiner contends that the application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species illustrated in Figures 1-7. The Examiner contends that the species are independent or distinct because there would be a serious burden on the Examiner if restriction is not required since the claims have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, their recognized divergent subject matter, and/or the claims require a different field of search. Applicant respectfully disagrees for the following reasons.

First, the restriction requirement is defective because the Examiner does not provide a grouping of claims or species. Accordingly, Applicant cannot elect when there is nothing to elect from. "[R]estriction requirements must provide a clear demarcation between restricted subject matter to allow determination that claims in continuing applications are consonant and therefore deserving of § 121's protections." Geneva Pharmaceuticals Inc. v. GlaxoSmithKline PLC., 68 USPQ2d, 1865, 1871. Here, the Examiner does not provide a clear demarcation between restricted subject matter and merely alleges that the species are independent or distinct.

Second, the Examiner did not properly establish the burden as required. Where the inventions as claimed are shown to be independent or distinct under the criteria of MPEP 806.05(c) - 806.06, the examiner, in order to establish reasons for insisting upon restriction, must explain why there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required. Thus the examiner must show by appropriate explanation one of the following: (A) Separate classification thereof: This shows that each invention has attained recognition in the art as a separate subject for inventive effort, and also a separate field of search. Patents need not be cited to show separate classification. (B) A separate status in the art when they are classifiable together: Separate status in the art may be shown by citing patents which are evidence of such separate status, and also of a separate field of search. (C) A different field of search: Where it is necessary to search for one of the inventions in a manner that is not likely to result in finding art pertinent to the other invention(s). The indicated different field of search must in fact be pertinent to the type of subject matter covered by the claims. Where, however, the classification is the same and the field of search is the same and there is no clear indication of separate future classification and field of search, no reasons exist for dividing among independent or related inventions. MPEP 808.02. Furthermore, the Examiner must provide reasons and/or examples to support conclusions. MPEP 803. Here, the Examiner has not shown by appropriate explanation any one of the above. Instead, the Examiner merely recites the above language. The Examiner has not shown the specific classifications or the specific separate status and separate field of search. The Examiner merely reaches the conclusions without providing reasons, explanations, or examples.

Third, the restriction requirement was not timely provided. 37 CFR 1.142 provides that the restriction requirement may be made at any time before final action. Accordingly, once a final office action is issued, the Examiner cannot issue a restriction requirement. A final Office Action on this application was issued on July 11, 2006. Although that final Office Action was issued by another Examiner, this is not a reason to allow the current Examiner to issue a restriction requirement.

Since the restriction requirement is defective by not giving a grouping of claims or species, or not providing the specific classifications or fields of search, or untimely issued, Applicant cannot make an election. However, in compliance with 35 USC 121, Applicant elects claims 1-19, 25-40, and 41-45 for examination.
